

"The appeal does not come as a surprise. However, we are confident that the permit will withstand any judicial review. The state of Kansas worked diligently to ensure the permit complied with all federal and state requirements, protects the public health and the environment, and was subjected to a thorough public input process. We anticipate an expeditious judicial decision so that we can continue forward in constructing a state-of-the-art project that has received wide bi-partisan support and is a project that Kansans justly deserve." ~ Cindy Hertel, Sunflower Electric Power Corporation communications coordinator
